KIWANIS - KIDS DAY PARADE DATE SET

Lemon Grove youngsters, more than 500 of them, will take part in a gala Youth Day celebration sponsored by the Grove Kiwanis as part of a nationwide Kiwanis project Saturday September 27.

A parade in which prizes for costumes will be given, floats, bands, and best of all, Monte Hall, will be among the features designed to bring out every resident of the community.

The parade, according to Chan Mason, Kiwanis president, will only be the beginning of the afternoon long program. A talent show at the junior high school with Monte Hall as judge will follow the parade.

A football game between Helix-Grossmont varsity players follows the talent show. The game is schedule for Helix and several entertainment features are scheduled for half-time.

Immediately after the game a hobby show is to be held at the Grove Youth Center to wind up a full day for booth youngsters and adults.

"Everything concerning the project is free to all comers. There will be no charges nor any collections made anywhere along the program, Kiwanians stated.

As for the handling of the affair, every Grove Kiwanian has been given an vital assignment in the project and is required to assume full responsibility for his assignment, Mason emphasized.

During the next two week efforts will be made by every means possible to bring out the youngsters and adults for the event. Monte Hall has agreed to announce it several times on his television show over KFMB tv. Carton type announcements will be given the youngsters in the schoolrooms and notices will be displayed prominently in most local business houses.

Plans are for the Kiwanis to purchase the prizes out of their treasury rather than to call on over-solicited merchants to donate them.

A more detailed list of the program will be published in the Review next week as arrangements are completed. In the meantime, Kiwanians are determined that this will be the biggest, best and most mirth-provoking event ever staged in the community.

LOCKER FIRM CHANGES HANDS

Sale of the American Food Lockers at 8321 Imperial Avenue to Paul E Beede was announced this week by Albert P. Schnell. Sale involved the property as well as the business.

The plant, housing more than one thousand individual lockers is reputed to be the largest of it's type in San Diego County. Facilities for processing all types of meat and poultry is also maintained.

Schnell started the firm six years ago in it's present location after selling a going composition drainboard and flooring business in El Cajon. Each year since 1946 Schnell was forced to enlarge his plant until it reached it's present huge proportions. The plant normally operates at 80 to 100 per capacity with the crowded times coming at deer season.

Paul Beede is a former newspaperman who was associated with widespread Gannett chain in Elmyra, N. Y., before completing negotiations with Schnell.

Schnell, for whom this is the second retirement, plans to rest until next year and then start in on an extensive fishing trip following a leasurely trip east and back. During the years he has been in business here Schnell will be well remembered for his work on the Grove sanitation district development. As a member of the board of the Grove Chamber of Commerce he raised $34,000 for sewer lines permitting the district to begin operation without a bond issue.

Beede said that he will follow the policy established by Schnell in the operation of the plant. Quality meats, government graded, will be available at prices below normal retail averages due to quantity purchases, Beede said.

Meats will continue to be cut, processed, packaged and sharp frozen to individual needs. Home freezer overflow will be handled as well as merchandise purchased at the plant, he added.

Altogether there are more than 9,000 cubic feet of freezer space in the plant. Of the 1,000 4½ cubic foot lockers of gleaming white enamel, half are door type. The others are pull out drawer compartments. These rent for $15 and $18 per year respectively.

Schnell said that when he and his wife Zoe returned from the extensive trip next year he will devote considerable of his time to youth activities in addition to fishing.

Beede, who with his wife Helen are seeking a home in the Grove area, has two youngsters, Evan and Connie.

Unification Decision Reaches State Board

The third and final public hearing regarding the proposal to unify the Lemon Grove School District attracted about sixty community residents at he San Miguel School Thursday night.

The S. D. County Committee on School District Organization, headed Dr. Cecil Hardesty, County School Superintendent, reviewed the action resulting in their recommendation to the State Board that the Grove District be unified.

The State Board, in the Committee's opinion, would pass down their decision by mid-October. Should they aprove, unification will be placed on the November ballot and District residents may make their desires known by their vote.

Unification will result in a high school for Lemon Grove according to members of the Committee. This should not increase the tax rate proponents of Unification state because we are now at the school tax ceiling, they say.

Tax rate is $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation for elementary schools plus 48c bonded indebtedness plus 7c for non certificated expenditures. Present high school taxes are 75c, plus 35c plus 2½c.

Harry Griffen, board member of School Trustees stated that Helix would soon be inadequate for this growing community. Vroman Dormann estimated that there would be 1,500 Lemon Grove youngsters in high school within the next immediate few years.

Byron Netzley, superintendent of schools answered charges that school projects and activities were not given enough publicity to adequately inform interested persons, by blaming, at least partially, the REVIEW for not making sufficient space available for this purpose.

To which we suggest that Mr. Netzley spend a couple of minutes each week glancing over the REVIEW, which he gets gratis, so that he can be more accurate on this point.

The report of the State Board of Education will be made in the REVIEW upon it's release.

BACK TO SCHOOL

This is the week when many a small boy, just as in Shakespeare's time, "is creeping like snail unwillingly to school"—but it is a week when the mother who scrubs him up and sends him on his way, and the teacher who greets the young hopeful, are in cheerier mood than in many a moon.

For the school picture in California, at least in hopeful prospect, is far brighter than it was when school let out last spring. The overcrowding is as bad as ever for the time being—probably is noticeably worse, with the added throng of new first-graders. But relief is in plain sight, come November 4, when parents, educators and all others interested in California's public schools may endorse the $185,000,000 school construction bond issue by casting a majority "Yes" vote on Proposition 24.

And rounding out the prospect for bettering the entire elementary and secondary school system is an equally important ballot proposition—Number 2—which increases State aid to the schools. A "Yes" vote on Number 2 is imperative in order to relieve public education from the crippling handicap of inflationary costs that have been made more burdensome by the heavy increase in school population.

Only through voter apathy toward the public schools could those sound measures fail of passage at the polls. And that, in view of the urgent need for relief on both counts, would seem unthinkable.

Inside Goodwin

by Max Goodwin

The time-table for federal tax cuts is pleasant to contemplate. The present tax law smooths the way for automatic reductions over the next couple of years, as follows:

In 1953: Excess-profits tax drop from 30 per cent to 15.

In 1954: Excess-profits tax ends. Personal income tax goes down about 10 per cent. Corporation tax rate drops from 52 to 47 per cent. Some excise taxes are cut.

Moreover — as always in a Presidential election year — every candidate, of whichever party, for whatever office, is promising tax relief.

A pleasant picture indeed! — but hardly, to the taxpayer with a long memory, and therefore a painful memory, a picture of complete reassurance. He recalls that, down the years, federal tax relief is every on the way — yet never arrives. Always, as now, relief is set for some time in the future. Always, by the time that point in the future is reached, something has intervened to upset the time-table — usually an "emergency" of some sort, real or politically contrived.

It is refreshingly true that taxes have been cut, here and there, on the State and local levels of government. But not in Washington. The wise man will hope that the relief now of the federal books will come true—but he'll hardly risk a bet on it.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Ad Zachary Martinsville, Ill.: I remember when we broke a hamestring or a trace chain, we made one out of hickory bark—also we spliced trace chain with same.

From S. I. McGinnis, Culloden W. Va.: I remember when my parents stored 60-gallon barrels of pickle beans, saur kraut, and sorghum molasses in our smoke house every fall.

From Mrs. Grace DuEll, Marysville, Wash.: I remember when my grandmother took all the dishes and other glassware that was broken in the household out to the chicken yard, where she put them on a flat rock and pulverized them with an old hammer so the hens would have grit.

From Mrs. Frank Johnson, Fayetteville, Ark.: I remember when we made hats out of corn shucks. We didn't have screen doors at that time, and when we went to eat, we children had to keep the flies away with buck brush.

From Amelia Doctor, Denver, Col.: I remember when we cooked apple butter in large quantities outdoors in big iron kettles and everybody took turns stirring the apple butter while it was cooking.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, W. Va.: I remember when young men showed off by jumping off the streetcar before it came to a stop.

Across the Desk

SOME of our good Republican friends are asking this question:

"How can Rush Holt be a 'polecat' and a 'jackass' at the same time?"

They are, of course, referring to the description of the Republican gubernatorial candidate given by U.S. Senator Mansfield Neely.

Here's the answer to this query:

Rush Dew Holt once ran on the Democratic ticket. He then jumped over, when he could not dictate the policies of this great party, to the Republican pasture.

Remember that story about a certain man—Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde—who was two men in one, a split personality? He was one kind of a human being at times, one who was kind, considerate, and lovable. Again he was a murderer, a rapist, and many times a criminal of various kinds.

So, we believe, Rush Holt can be a "polecat" and a "jackass" as well as that fellow could be a Dr. Jekyll and a Mr. Hyde.—Mason County (W. Va.) News.

Men's first flight to the moon isn't going to be as easy as some of the comic book writers and others have led us to believe, according to Dr. Clayton S. White, research director of the Lovelace Clinic in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The doctor points out that oxygen begins to run out at about ten thousand feet, and there isn't any at all above 60 thousand feet. In addition, at 22 thousand feet the barometric pressure is down to a point that decompression sickness affects the pilot's blood and lungs.

Also at about 60 thousand feet there is a poisonous concentration of ozone, and above that is intensive ultraviolet light. And, of course, Dr. White calls attention to the fact that once the pilot leaves the earth's amosphere, he must look out for speeding meteors and other flying bodies.

But the research director agrees that getting a rocket ship into the upper atmosphere is feasible!—The Phoenix (Ariz.) Home News.

"THE STARS" a peek at

By LYN CONNELLY

CHARLES FARRELL and "Seventh Heaven" are synonymous, at least in the minds of avid moviegoers of the late 20's . . . He played Chico opposite Janet Gaynor in the stirring drama of World War I . . . Now he's playing the part of a middle-aged father in the CBS-TV series, "My Little Margie" . . . His daughter, Margie, is played by Gale Storm, who has three children of her own . . . It was at the behest of Hal Roach, Sr., a long-time friend of Charlie's, that the star returned to public life, and it is Hal Roach, Jr. who is producing the series of T.V. domestic comedies.

Farrell's screen career, after some years of extra work, was launched in Paramount's "Old Ironsides," directed by the late James Cruze . . . "Seventh Heaven" followed (1927) . . . Then came a series of other Fox pictures, including "Street Angel," "The Man Who Came Back," "Sunny Side Up," and others, most of them with Janet Gayner . . . In 1932 he married Virginia Valli in New York City . . . She had been a screen star in her own right, but retired upon marriage.

When the picture industry apparently was falling for him, he hied himself to Palm Springs, picked up a piece of sand which later became the lucrative Racquet Club . . . It was on Christmas Day of 1934 that he opened the project . . . The following day, Hal Roach Sr. went down to the California desert spa, ran into Charlie and asked him how he was doing . . . Farrell, in all honesty, replied, "Well, we took in $18 yesterday" and Roach, in all honesty, said, "Well, we opened the Santa Anita race track and took in a million and a half" . . . The chickens can come home to roost for Charlie . . . In the years that followed he has made close to three quarters of a million a year with his original pile of sand.

He and Virginia operate the club together and during the summer reside in Beverly Hills.

FRED ALLEN'S prolonged illness has his friends worried . . . It undoubtedly will cause cancellation of his new show, "Two for the Money," which was scheduled to bow on TV this fall . . . This is a bad break as it was the first time Fred had shown the old spark of showmanship on TV and it would have been the making of him . . . It probably will fall to another comedian now . . . Jack Benny, back from abroad, found playing the London and Scottish vaudeville halls a real vacation . . . no mantinees or Sunday performances . . . The Robert Young situation-comedy radio series, "Father Knows Best," will "go television" shortly on film with Bob starring in both versions.

There's talk of a video film series being produced based on the famed "Topper" characterization, in which Alec Guinness, British movie acter, would star . . . Wonder if that is wise since all the "Topper" films starring Roland Young have been seen zillions of times on TV already and it undoubtedly would have taken the edge off a new series.

By WALTER SHEAD

WHAT ABOUT the farm vote this year? That is the big question which is paramount in both political parties. With farm income barely keeping ahead of prices, the platforms of both parties are important to the farmers of the nation.

The meat of the Republican platform is: "We favor a farm program aimed at full parity prices for all farm products in the market place. . . Where government action on perishable commodities is desirable, we recommend locally controlled marketing agreements and other voluntary methods."

The nut of the Democratic platform says: "We will continue to protect the producers of basic agricultural commodities under the terms of a mandatory price support program of 90 percent of parity. We continue to advocate practical methods for extending price supports to other storables and to the producers of perishable commodities which account for three-fourths of all farm income."

In other words, the Republicans favor a flexible program of price supports in the market place which means the law of supply and demand and local action of a voluntary nature on perishables.

The Democrats favor mandatory 90 percent of parity for all basics and extension of these mandatory supports to perishables when necessary.

The 82nd congress in the last days of the session became so alarmed at the continued fall of farm income that a bi-partisan move of both Democrats and Republicans kicked out the provisions of the 1949 law, which calls for a sliding scale of parity support, for a compulsory 90 percent of parity through 1955.

It would seem therefore that the Republicans in their platform are falling back on the 1949 law, while the Democrats approve the bi-partisan action of the 82nd congress for the full protection of the farmer.

The country can expect during the next few months an exodus of Washington officialdom in preparation for the coming change in administrations. Already several top men have given notice, and it will be difficult for the President to replace these men with only a few months remaining of his administration. Probably next in line is Ellis Arnall, price administrator and former Georgia governor.

Arnall feels that he had the rug pulled from under him in the steel strike settlement. He was unalterably opposed to the price increase granted the steel companies. He maintained that only price increase they deserved was that under the Capeheart amendment which amounted to approximately $3.84 per ton. Defense Mobilizer John Steelman, however, granted them a $5.20 price increase for carbon steel, which will average out at something like $5.60 a ton for all kinds of steel. The price breaches the standard set up by the office of price administration which provided that industries would be permitted price increases equal to 85 percent of their profits of the best three years 1946 through 1949. Under this formula the steel companies, according to Arnall, could have absorbed the wage increase granted the unions and made their profits without any increase.

This breach of the price barrier means that other companies such as aluminum, petroleum products, and other metals can come in for price increases to cover wage increases and John L. Lewis is expected to top the steel wage boost for his soft coal miners come September.

All this is inflationary adding to the cost of living spiral and folks in the country will hear much during these next few months as living costs inch upwards. Adding to the inflationary picture is the drouth in the south and New England states which is likely to bring food costs to new peaks.

Added to the drouth picture is the epidemic of vesicular exanthema in hogs under which thousands of head are being killed to prevent spread.

Together Again

by James Heller

THE QUARREL was the culmination of many smaller quarrels. They had, it seemed, always been in evidence, yet neither Noel nor Janet had given them a name. Tonight it all came out in bitter gushing floods.

"You've had your way ever since our marriage. Your perverseness has been a liability, a handicap. I've made the grade in spite of, not because of you."

"So that's the way you feel? After I've sacrificed and worked and tolerated your friends, simply so you could wangle more business from them."

"It is my friends who have tolerated you, my dear."

"You wretch!"

"Frankly, I see no good in going on. Our ways are not the same. We'll forever be at swords points."

"Most any arrangement will be quite satisfactory to me. I'm quite at the end of my rope, putting up with your idiosyneracies."

And so Janet had gone north and Noel had seen his lawyer.

Of course there had been a time when there were no quarrels. That was long ago, when Noel as a young real estate agent striving to make his place in the world had wooed and won the beautiful Janet.

There had been happiness then, in a little white cottage with a picket fence and a garden out back. A sort of story-book happiness. They had been so very much in love, so contented to be alone and together.

It all seemed tremendously long ago now, so very much in the past as to seem almost unreal. Noel had forged ahead, and Janet had helped. There were moments of discouragement, of forlorn hope, but in the end they had triumphed.

They had gone south during the Florida boom and invested everything they owned. Uncannily, Noel had foreseen the crash and unloaded in time.

The first quarrel had occurred then, when Noel had wanted to go to California because he believed there was to be a land boom there. She had gone with him, against her will, but from that day on the silent feud had raged.

In 1929 Noel displayed the same canny foresight. He had sold out two days before the big tumble.

Now they were rich, disgustingly rich—and unhappy.

Janet did not return to their Park avenue apartment. She went on to Buffalo and from there to Ridgeview where the little white cottage was located. They had never sold it. It stood, somewhat dilapidated and overgrown with weeds, like a forlorn but welcoming milestone.

Janet had the place cleaned and aired and the weeds cut down and the garden planted. Then she had painters begin brightening the outside and laborers patch up the fence. This occupied her thoughts and her time for a fortnight. Or did it?

When the last of the workmen had gone Janet sat by the window of her (their) bedroom and stared out at the newly planted garden. Her maid came in to straighten the room.

"Emily," Janet said suddenly, "I can't stand it."

"Beg pardon, ma'm?"

"I can't stand living here among all these memories."

"Yes, ma'm."

"We'll have to go away."

Emily's face brightened. "To New York, ma'm?"

Janet did not answer at once. When she spoke it was in a curiously broken whisper.

"I must have him back. I can't go on without him."

"Mr. Pierce, ma'm?"

"Emily, I must get him back somehow." Suddenly she stood up. "Send him a wire, Emily. Tell him I'm sick. Tell him I'm delirious and calling for him. Hurry, Emily. Send it at once."

Emily went out. A half hour later the telephone rang. It was the Western Union office. "A wire from St. Anne's hospital in Miami for Mrs. Noel Pierce. Husband seriously hurt in plance crash. Come at once."

Janet caught a plane at Buffalo for New York. In New York she changed for another going south. She reached Washington in the late afternoon and went into the landing field restaurant for a sandwich. She had 20 minutes before the plane left.

She sat on a stool, forgetting the sandwich on her plate, conscious only of a horrible fear, a dread, a resentment because of this slight delay.

"Janet!"

She turned. A man was standing at her elbow. She stared at him, swayed, caught herself.

"Noel!" she breathed. "I — I thought—the telegram—"

He looked at her gravely. "And I thought—your telegram—"

They stared. Understanding penetrated the chaos of their thoughts.

"I sent the wire to Ridgeview instead of Park avenue. I thought you might go there. I knew if you had, that you'd come—when I needed you. It was there, when I needed you, you always came. And now—now I need you so very much more."

"Oh, my darling!" She was in his arms, and that was where she wanted to be, knowing that it was what he wanted, too.

The plane for the north left on the dot. Noel and Janet were its only passengers. They had bought up every other seat.

Examine Moles Often is Advice

It's a rare person who can not boast of at least one mole, yet the average person is likely to have hundreds of moles. Although only one mole in a thousand develops into cancer, every mole should be examined frequently.

A mole is a skin growth that is composed of excess cells. Its size may vary from that of about a pinhead to one that covers half of the body.

Special attention should be given to moles that are exposed to constant irritation or chafing such as those on the lips of those along the collar line.

Moles that are black are more apt to become malignant and to spread throughout the body. At the first sign of a mole that bleeds or changes in appearance, size, or color, call it to the attention of your physician.

MILAN LEGGETT, Dallas, Texas, one day was at work when a man walked in and introduced himself as representing the light and power company of his city. Milan is employed with a broadcasting station and their electrical service had recently been switched from another company to the one his caller represented, and he had come to see what their total power consumption was so that a contract could be drawn up for their electrical service. The two men made the rounds of the building, and Milan told the other man just what the power drain of the water cooler, water pump, and air compressor was. He explained the transmitter and stated how much power it required. As they stepped outside and looked up at the towers, he gave the figures for the tower lighting system.

Carnegie

During this time he noticed that his visitor was fascinated by the transmitter, so he explained its operation as best he could. They went from one end of the transmitter to the other and he told why they were necessary. He showed the large tubes that cost $400 each, and again as they stepped outside he explained why they had five towers and why they were a certain height.

Before his caller left, he gave Milan his card on which he wrote his residence phone number, and said: "If you ever have a power failure or other trouble with our electrical service call me. You can call the trouble division, but if you call me, perhaps I can expedite matters." This meant that someday he might be able to save Milan's company a loss of revenue by expediting power line repairs. Since this courtesy was volunteered, Milan is sure that talking in terms of the other man's interest is what prompted it.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

Rev. Robert H. Harper

Persons and Property.
Lesson: Exodus 20: 15; Luke 16: 1-12.
Golden Text: Exodus 20: 15.

BEGINNING with the commandment, "Thou shalt not steal," our lesson presents the story of the illustration of the use of wealth. Surprisingly so, Jesus used a wicked man and a thief to be an example unto the disciples in their handling of money.

When a certain rich man called unto him a steward in his employ and said to him: "Give an account of thy stewardship; for thou mayest no longer be steward," the wicked fellow went to each of the owner's debtors, asked how much was owed, and then quickly cut the amount in half. Thus did he cultivate the favor of all the debtors so that afterward his welcome was such in each household that he could make prolonged visits from house to house.

Now Jesus declares that we should so use the things of earth that when they fail we may be received into the everlasting habitations. While being far from the dishonesty of the wicked steward, we should be concerned to deal justly with the things committed unto us, so that they fail us we may have an eternal security.

There is no matter more important than that of the Christian's use of money and other things that God entrusts unto us. And we should indeed be ready at all times to deal in such wise with passing things that God may entrust to us the true riches.

A good pie is like a good INSURANCE PROGRAM
There is no doubt about it, a good pie is like a good Insurance Program. Many a man thinks that he has to have a lot of dough to start one. He thinks that the agent and the insurance companies have a lot of crust to charge what they do. Nevertheless, the truth of the matter is that you do not have to have a lot of dough; the main thing is to have an expert see that the dough is mixed properly and that you are covered top, bottom and sides — just like a good pie.

15 MPH Speed Zone For School Mandatory

Adults as well as children should start back to school this month if the kids are to escape the traffic hazards they'll face traveling back and forth from classes, the California Highway Patrol said today.

An important item for grown-ups to brush up on is the speed limit in school zones—15 miles an hour when children are going to and from school or playing in the schoolyard.

Another life-saving law for motorists to learn by heart is the one relating to the flashing red lights on school buses.

When these lights are on, it means youngsters are getting on or off the bus and all other vehicles on the same roadway, whether they're going the same or opposite direction, must come to a complete stop and remain standing until the lights go out.

Patrol officials said that in addition to strict observance of all traffic laws, drivers must be ready for the sometimes unpredictable actions of children.

"If you should kill or injure a little boy or girl, even though you were legally in the clear, your conscience would never let you forget it," they said.

Two new trucks have been acquired by the Grove post-office, replacing privately owned autos under contract. Same personnel will operate them and same schedules will be maintained.

Posing pridefully with the new equipment are Joe Leone, clerk "Frenchy" Faucher, postmaster and Roy Kranz, clerk-carrier.

To keep the new equipment rolling, bids for maintainance and repair will be taken effective immediately, Faucher said.

Coroner Reports "All Quiet" On Gove Front

Twenty-one motor vehicle fatalities and 18 accidental deaths, none in Lemon Grove, were included in the total of 136 cases investigated by the Coroner's office during August, reported Coroner and Public Administrator A. E. Gallagher.

The month's toll, hiking the year's total to 1113 cases, included 80 natural deaths, 10 suicides and four deaths listed as accident or suicide unknown.

Gallagher and his deputies spent approximately 281 hours in investigating the cases, 63 percent of which were reported after office hours. There were 89 cases in the City and 47 in the County. In August of last year the Coroner's office handled 110 cases.

The public administrator division of his department processed 47 cases last month and deposited $64,679.60 in estate funds with the County Treasurer, Gallagher added.

Coroner's cases throughout the County last month included Oceanside, 12; Chula Vista, 2; National City, 7; Coronado, 2; Escondido, 1; La Mesa, 3; El Cajon, 1; Lakeside, 1; San Ysidro, 1; Encinitas, 3; Spring Valley, 1; Nestor, 1; Ramona, 1; Otay, 1; Del Mar, 1; Cardiff, 1; and Cuyamaca, 1.

Lionel Van Deerlin, 28th District candidate for Congress, has filed a $50,000 court action against a publisher who asserts he will refuse to accept his political advertising.

Named in the San Diego Federal Court complaint was Phillip Rush, publisher of the Southern California Rancher, a monthly farm news journal with 13,000 claimed circulation in Orange, San Diego and Riverside counties.

It is alleged that Rush rejected paid advertising from Van Deerlin's campaign committee for the sole reason that he disagrees with the candidate's political views. Van Deerlin is the Democratic nominee.

The suit was prepared by Attorney Walter Wencke, under anti-monopoly sections of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts. At a meeting of Lemon Grove School District Board of Trustees Monday, the Education Committee of the Brookside Improvement Association discussed educational facilities for the Brookside area.

The Education Committee will meet next with the Board of Trustees of the La Mesa-Spring Valley District. This will be followed by a joint mtng of the Boards of both districts togther with the citizens of Brookside.

At present, approximately half of Brookside children attend the Grove Schools. It is felt in Lemon Grove that the geographic features of both communities, Lemon Grove is the natural place for children from Brookside to attend. A school could be built to serve both Brookside and American Homes.

ard To Choose keside "Belle"

This year's '49er Committee is fortunate in having three ch live wires running for the lle of Lakeside. It would have n hard to select women who harder workers, with more sonality, and who would have own more interest in their mmunity than Dorothy Ewing, ne White and Bobby Sypolt. rdless of who may win, the will be a beautiful Belle Lakeside will be proud rown.

t the time of this writing, the st recent tabulation of votes not known, but it is for sure t Jayne's barbecue last Sat- ay will put she and Dorothy hty close.

rothy Ewing was the first to this year's contest and got to a fying start with a box al at the Memorial Building. has kept up her sales of TV barbecue tickets which has kept her in the lead up to this week. It is possible that she may drop into second place this week but with her dinner dance coming up next Saturday night, at the Hotel, it is certain that she is going to be right in there at the end.

Dorothy came to San Diego in 1946 after graduating from high school at Parsons, Kans. She had been here only a short time when she blind-dated with Leroy Ewing. This was a case of love at first sight and Dorothy and Leroy were married just 20 days later.

They moved to Lakeside shortly after where they started building their own home. This home has progressed through the years until they can now see it rapidly coming to completion. Time had to be taken out for a couple of years when Leroy was transferred to Kodiak and Dorothy accompanied him.

Dorothy is a hard worker, putting eight hours a day at the Lakeside Cafe, and she never refuses a request for her services in helping out the community. In her spare time she loves to sew, making all of her own clothes as well as many of those for her new neice, Mary Genevieve. Her favorite entertainment is sports of all kinds, particularly football and baseball.

Jayne White, probably the best known of the candidates, was the second to enter her name in this year's contest. Jayne is the only native born girl in the race, having been born on Maine St. when Lakeside was a considerably smaller community than it is now. She was the youngest of four children born to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace White. Wallace is better known as the "Old Master of Barbecues."

Jayne graduated from Lakeside Grammar School, Grossmont H and Beauty Schol in San Diego She then worked for three years in La Jolla before her marriage to Wilson White of Pacific Beach Wilson and Jayne have two children, Trudy and Craig.

With the exception of a stay in Denver, Colorado, while Wilson was in the Air Corps Jayne has never lived outside of Lakeside.

Jayne owned the Lakeside Beauty Shop 11 years ago and has either managed it or worked in it almost continuously since. Her many patrons and friends are all out working feverishly to put Jayne over the top and it is going to be a tough job to beat her.

Those who didn't attend the barbecue that Jayne gave last Saturday night missed a wonderful meal and evening of entertainment. The attendance was good and everyone seemed to have a grand time.

Bobby Sypolt was a little slow in entering but she has worked hard and made an excellent showing since she got started. She has put on several events with which to raise her votes and has done well.

Bobby is working at a distinct handicap with all of her other activities. She is the President of the Junior Woman's Club, Corresponding Secretary of the Lakeside Woman's Club, President of the Triangle Circle of the Presbyterian Fellowship and is operating a ten-acre ranch while her husband is in Korea.

HONORED . . . Edward Blackwell, oldest former student of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., reads honorary degree presented him at centennial of engineering, Chicago.

Bobby's husband is an Army career man with twenty-one years in. Bobby has followed him a great deal but settled down in Lakeside in 1946, while her husband was teaching ROTC at Hoover High School in San Diego. They are planning on remaining in Lakeside for the rest of their lives as it is the finest place in which they have lived.

Bobby is the mother of three children and three grandchildren. The two younger boys are living at home and help her some on the ranch.

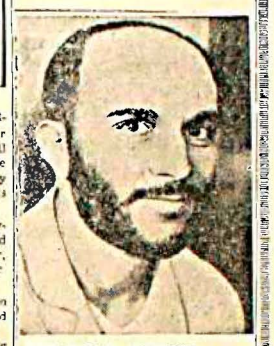
With all of her activities, Bobby finds time to enter baking and textile entries in the County Fair each year. She never fails to bring to Lakeside many prizes with her delicious cakes and her beautiful handiwork.

It is a pleasure to become associated with these three fine women in making this year's Days of '49 a success. You have read these short biographies so get behind your favorite candidate and put her across. In this way you can show your thankfulness for their untiring work and at the same time help the completion of the Memorial Building.

PAYS FOR MISTAKE . . . Karl Latva, Wenzell, N.H., was ordered deported in Boston federal court because he contributed 90 cents to the Communist party 18 years ago. Here he steps off bus enroute to post bond. His wife waits for him to join he

USO Nears War II Peak

Attendance at the USO-Armed Services YMCA in downtown San Diego topped the three million mark the first seven months of this year, setting an all time high since the end of World War II.



ADMIRABLE ASSASSIN . . . Jailed after he assassinated Gen. Ali Razmara, Khalil Tahmasbi (above) now has been freed by parliament on grounds he performed public service.

NEXT TIME you make sandwiches for a picnic, have your bread or rolls fresh, spread all over with butter or spread so the filling won't soak through and try some new and delightful fillings for variety.

Peanut butter is always a favorite. Add to it some crisp and crumbled bacon for variety, chopped raw apple or grated carrots.

Have some cream cheese on hand? Mix with deviled ham and catchup for a delicious spread.

Sliced bologna is something you'll have frequently. Team it with cole slaw in a sandwich for it's good texture.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Savory Beef, Parsleyed Rice
(Serves 6)

5 large onions, sliced
3 tablespoons shortening
2 pounds beef chuck
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon thyme
2 cups boiling water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon catchup

Fry onions slowly in melted shortening until brown. Cut beef into serving sized pieces. Add to pan, increase heat and brown on both sides. Mix flour with seasoning and sprinkle over meat. Add water, vinegar and catchup. Cover and simmer until meat is tender, about 2 hours. Serve on a platter with a border of parsleyed rice, made by adding chopped parsley to boiled rice.

Like a hearty sandwich? Combine chopped frankfurters, baked beans, catchup and mustard for the filling. This is delicious in toasted buns.

Chopped, hard-cooked eggs make a good filling when mixed with chopped or ground tender, green cheese, prepared mustard and mayonnaise.

Like raw vegetable filling. Chopped cabbage and nuts with grated carrots and mayonnaise are delicious.

Flaked tuna fish or shrimp combines with cottage cheese. Add a little pickled relish to make it tart and delicious for a good filling on Vienna bread or crusty rolls.
